Message from the Dean

The school of Medicine is the largest in the College of Health Sciences and one of the largest in The University of Nairobi.

We provide a wide range of courses from certificate to post doctorate hosted in 14 departments. These we shall continue to provide with improving efficiency. As seek to improve and re-invent ourselves in the school we will be introducing a number of new products. These include state of the art conferences suitable for all health care providers and students. In response to the rapidly changing dynamics of medical practice and an ever expanding health worker population in our society, we are developing an attractive retinue of short courses to help them maintain quality practice in their fields of work. I invite you keep visiting our site and follow this development.
